Early History of Chicago by Early Progressive Era Female ActivistBy

MLPAn easy, fast read and charming autobiography of Louise de Koven Bowen: prominent, female, Chicagoan activist of the Progressive Era.

Offers a portrait of Chicago and its growing pains from a woman's perspective. This title shows how women made a difference in Chicago.

"A charming record of [Bowen's] contributions to building 19th and 20th century Chicago... [Bowen] had a taste for stirring things up, a strong social conscience, seemingly unlimited energy and formidable administrative talent." -- Chicago Sun-Times
