This Man is a HeroBy Kristan NorvigSpencer West is a shining example of all that the human spirit can be, can do. His story is one of overcoming a very difficult situation not only to survive, but to thrive and to lead others on to find their own greatness. In "Standing Tall", he tells the story of his life from his birth up until his current work with Me to We. I've had the great pleasure to see one of his (live) talks, and his enthusiasm, great good humor, joie de vivre, and playfulness shine through the words in his book as brightly as they do when you see him in person. I would recommend this book to anyone wrestling with the difficulties of being human.

Spencer West is many things. Accomplished speaker. University graduate. Natural prankster. Former cheerleader. And a young man without legssomething that has never held him back. Spencer was born without the use of his legs. When he was five, doctors decided to amputate below his pelvis to better help him get around. It didnt bother him; he was Superman and nothing would ever get in his way. Or so he thought. Navigating through life on his hands, Spencer has always lived with purpose. But he wanted more out of life than just a paycheque and material possessions. He wanted to make an impact but wasnt always sure how. That was until he had the epiphany: He was different for a reason. Infused with humour and humility, Spencer has never lost the hope or courage he needed to tackle personal obstaclesbullying, isolation, failure, or pride. His secret? Always standing tall.

About the AuthorSpencer West is an inspirational and charismatic speaker for the social enterprise Me to We. In 2008, he travelled to Kenya to help build a school in the Maasai Mara, where he met young people who strive to overcome challenges every day. This experience helped him recognize his true callingto motivate and inspire people around the world. Since he began speaking, Spencer has reached over 1.8 million people, including students, educators, faith-based groups, and families with his encouraging words.Craig and Marc Kielburger are brothers and co-founders of Free The Children. Their work has been featured on The Oprah Winfrey Show, CNN, BBC, and The Today Show, and in Time and The Economist.
